F.D.R. PRESIDES AT CONFERENCE ON RECESSION

Calls In Five Industrial Chiefs For Luncheon Parley

IMPROVEMENT IS SEEN BY BANKER

Another Urges Modification of Government Policies

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—President Roosevelt asked five industrial chiefs to confer with him at the White House late today on the business recession.

Those invited for a 5 o'clock conference in the President's study were:

Alfred P. Sloan, chairman of the board of General Motors corporation; Ernest P. Weir, chairman of the board of National Steel corporation; Lewis Brown, president of Johns-Manville; M. W. Clemens, president of the Pennsylvania railroad; and Colby Chester head of the General Foods corporation.

White House officials said the meeting, largest of its kind since the President, in his message to Congress, urged the cooperation of business, agriculture and labor in combating the slump, would discuss the economic situation generally and how to improve it.

Sees Improvement

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—Complete recovery from the present recession depends on solution of a number of problems, but already improvement is in sight, James H. Perkins, chairman of the National City Bank of New York, and City Bank Farmers Trust Co., asserted in his report to stockholders today.

He listed as causes of the slump stockpiling of inventories last spring, increased cost of production through taxation and added wage burdens, the ending of inflationary support previously given by the government's deficit financing and "the effect of existing uncertainties in retarding the flow of savings into new industries and private enterprise."

Taking the situation as a whole, Perkins said, the essential need is for "the cooperative efforts of capital and labor."

"Acting together," he asserted, "they can do much to restore order in the economic organization, re-establish the confidence of the investor, and forestall the demand for legislative actions which are frequently harmful in their effects."

Urges Modification

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—Winthrop W. Aldrich, chairman of the board of Chase National bank, declared today "a prompt and adequate modification of government policy regarding the capital market would make a major contribution to business revival."

The banker made the suggestion in the course of an address delivered at the annual meeting of the bank's stockholders.

He directed sharp criticism at the federal capital gains tax, the undistributed profits tax and the structure of federal regulation affecting securities.

Referring to statements he made last October charging excessive tightness of the stock market was due partly to securities and exchange commission rules, he declared "the adequate rectification of this condition of the stock market remains one of the most urgent needs of the capital market of the United States."

Reno's "Divorce Mills" Scored By Judge Hammond; Nullifies Woman's Decree

Assails Western Nuptial Laws As A "National Disgrace"

LISEON, Jan. 11.—In a ruling scoring Reno "divorce mills," Judge H. W. Hammond Monday nullified a Nevada decree and overruled a motion filed by attorneys for Mrs. Elsie Mahan of East Liverpool seeking custody of minor children.

The Reno decree granted Mrs. Mahan after she had filed a suit for divorce in this county from George W. Scott of East Liverpool, was set aside on the grounds that the plaintiff had not established a permanent residence in Nevada.

Not a Nevada

Married to John E. Mahan immediately after the western court had granted her divorce, the bride gave East Liverpool as her residence on her marriage license application, the judge stated in his written opinion. The court ruled this act indicated Mrs. Mahan was not a bona fide Nevada.

Judge Hammond assailed the western state's divorce laws in his opinion, characterizing them as a national disgrace. "It is a notorious fact," he stated, "that Reno is a blot on what is left of American morals. It is known as a divorce mill pure and simple and is operated for the sole benefit of those who profit thereby."

"The officers of these courts have departed so far from the canons of ethics by which honorable members of the legal profession are governed they should be shunned by law abiding men."

Mrs. Mahan, according to the decision, filed suit for divorce in common pleas court here Feb. 24, 1937, seeking a divorce from her first husband on the grounds of extreme cruelty. On April 6, 1937, George Scott, defendant, filed an answer and cross petition asking for a divorce on the same grounds used by his wife.

Returns To E. Liverpool

The wife then went to Reno and was granted a decree Nov. 13, 1937. Scott was given a divorce here Oct. 18, almost a month earlier, granting him custody of the children. After marrying her second husband, Mrs. Mahan is alleged to have returned to East Liverpool and taken charge of the children.

Cited for contempt by Judge Hammond, Mrs. Mahan filed a motion to set aside the judgment and order of the court, charging error. The motion was heard Jan. 5 and overruled.

The final act in the domestic drama occurred Monday when Judge Hammond overruled a motion for a new trial.

ADmits THEFT OF 4 MORE CARS

East Liverpool Man Is Quizzed Again By State Police

Joseph Horner, 23, of Dry Run, East Liverpool, held in the county jail at Lisbon on a charge of auto larceny, following his arrest by Salem officers Dec. 27, has confessed the theft of four more automobiles in Salem, Corp. W. E. Arey of the Salem state highway patrol station, said today.

Two of the stolen cars were recovered Monday after Corp. Arey and Chief Ralph Stoffer grilled Horner at the county jail.

The officers went to Lisbon again today to question the suspect further. He is said to have admitted stealing a car at Alliance also. All of the thefts are reported to have occurred within the past two months.

The patrol officer indicated Horner's confession may lead to additional arrests. Eugene Mike, 22, also of East Liverpool, arrested at the same time Horner was apprehended and in connection with the same case, is at liberty under $500 bond set by Municipal Judge Frank Grosshans at East Liverpool.

BAPTISTS PLAN RALLY IN SALEM

Four Churches to Be Represented At Gathering Friday

Four Baptist churches of this vicinity will be represented at a Forward Forum and Fellowship dinner at the First Baptist church here Friday evening.

The dinner will start promptly at 6:30 p. m. and the forum meeting will be held after that. The pastor, all officers and teachers of the church and Sunday school are expected to attend this meeting. Others will come from the Baptist churches at Alliance, East Liverpool, Locust Grove and Salem.

Chairmen Named

Mrs. George Peterson is chairman of the dinner committee and Mrs. Frank Brudery is chairman of the promotion committee. Rev. S. Talmage Maganti is chairman of the local forum committee.

The program will be given by a team of three leaders representing the Northern Baptist convention. The inspirational address of the evening will be made by George Hunt, an Indian and representative of the Oklahoma Indians among whom the Baptists have been working for a number of years. He will be introduced by Dr. Coe Hayne of New York.

The forum will be under the direction of Paul Judson Morris, director of the Ohio Baptist board of promotion and agent of the Northern Baptist convention. The forum will include a frank discussion of present day church conditions and the groundwork will be laid for the simultaneous Baptist church advance programs to begin on the second Sunday in February.

School of Christian Living

The second session of the School of Christian Living will be held at the First Baptist church Wednesday evening, beginning at 7:30. Following the session of the classes on "Better Churches" and "What Baptists Believe" Howard Poltz will show moving pictures.

JAPS' EMPEROR DEBATES FORMAL WAR WITH CHINA

High Officials Drafting The Empire's "Unshakable Policy"

MANIFESTO WILL BE ISSUED SOON

Conference Is Fourth of Its Kind In Japanese History

(By Associated Press)
TOKYO, Jan. 11.—The highest government and military officials of Japan in imperial conference today formally "the empire's unshakable policy toward China."

The details of that policy and whether it contemplated a formal declaration of war against China, with whom Japan has fought in undeclared conflict for six months, were held in strictest secrecy.

It was announced semi-officially that the Japanese government would issue within a few days a manifesto clarifying its future action in China.

Reports To Board

Following the imperial conference, Premier Prince Fumimaro Kono reported details thereof to members of the cabinet advisory board who had waited at his residence.

War Minister General Gen Sugiyama returned to the emperor's palace in the afternoon for a separate audience, presumably linked with the imperial conference decision.

While the conference results were not known, one informant asserted that two alternatives were presented: China's surrender or continuance of the warfare.

Finance Minister Okimobu Kaya optimistically told cabinet colleagues that Japan would have no difficulties financing long-term hostilities.

Today marked the first time since 1914 that Emperor Hirohito had presided at an imperial conference and the fourth such conference in Japanese history.

War also was the cause of these other conferences—in 1894 the Chinese-Japanese war, in 1904 the Russo-Japanese war, and in 1914 the world conflict.

Advocates Declaration

With the present conflict with China six months old, Tokyo's newspapers said that Admiral Nobumasa Suoyetsugu, powerful home minister and retired fleet commander, was a leader in advocating that a formal declaration of war be made.

He insisted, the press reported, upon withdrawal of recognition of the Chinese government.

Today's grave conference began at 2 p. m. in the east hall of the imperial palace, and it was understood the conferees grouped around a U-shaped table with the emperor at the head.

Army leaders were on his left, navy officials at the right, and members of the cabinet grouped nearby. Kiichiro Hiranuma, president of the privy council, also attended.

Burn Lake of Petroleum to Save Wildlife

Danger of wildlife destruction along Tionesta creek in Allegheny national forest was believed past after a spectacular petroleum fire at Crystal Springs, Pa. A pipeline break spilled the oil into the creek's headwaters and it oozed a mile down stream killing hundreds of trout before workmen from the National Transit company and conservation officials set the petroleum afire. Flames shot 100 feet, and the black column of smoke gave the scene the appearance of a volcano.

SURRENDERS IN MARINO SLAYING

Cleveland To Be Questioned In Murder of Paroled Robber

CLEVELAND, Jan. 11.—Thomas Galati, 28-year-old Cleveland police figure, surrendered at Centipede station late yesterday for questioning in the underworld murder of Sept. 10 of Roy (Happy) Marino, paroled bank robber, in Youngstown.

Detective Sergeant James T. Hogan, head of the homicide squad, ordered Galati, alias Moran, held after he walked into the station and asked if he was wanted.

Youngstown officials working on the unsolved slaying of one of the chief figures in the special grand jury investigation of Ohio paroles are expected to arrive in Cleveland today to question the former con.

Sought for several weeks by Detectives Robert Jeffry and William Harrison of Youngstown, Galati was linked to the case, the detectives said, through an automobile license number believed to have been on the mysterious "black sedan" which figured in the investigation.

The sedan called at the Marino

Recovers Bicycle Stolen a Year Ago

A young chap walked into police headquarters yesterday and asked Officer Paul Ormsby if he'd seen anything of his bicycle which he had reported stolen.

"How long ago was that?" queried the patrolman.

"A year ago," the boy answered.

Ormsby about fell out of his chair, recovered himself and told the boy his bicycle might turn up one of these days.

A short time later Patrolman Ormsby, on S. Broadway, saw another boy on a bicycle. He called the youth over—and recovered the "bike" stolen a year ago.

WHEATLEY-KIRK FIGHT RENEWED

Engineer Litigants Before State Supreme Court Today

LISEON, Jan. 11.—The long-standing dispute centering around the county engineer's office reached the state supreme court today as attorneys for Robert Wheatley, incumbent, and Lloyd Kirk, who seeks to unseat the former, presented arguments in Columbus.

Wheatley is holding his office under a stay of execution granted by the state court several months ago.

Wheatley is appealing from a decision of the court of appeals declaring his election in November, 1936, invalid. The appellate court held that the incumbent held his office illegally since he was not a licensed engineer at the time he was elected.

Attorneys for Wheatley are expected to attack the constitutionality of the law requiring county engineers to hold licenses. In earlier hearings Wheatley maintained he held a temporary license at the time of the election and had applied for a permanent license. His counsel declared press of business in the state office had prevented issuance of the permit prior to the election.

Kirk, a Republican, was defeated by Wheatley in the election and started quo warranto proceedings in common pleas court here. The court of appeals last summer upheld his claim and ordered Wheatley to vacate the office. Under a stay of execution the incumbent was permitted to hold the post pending the supreme court's decision. This may not be handed down immediately as the court is expected to take the case under advisement after hearing arguments.

Both parties to the action attended today's hearing with their attorneys.

HOFFMAN PAYS KIDNAP REWARD

Divides $25,000; Insists Case Not Completely Solved

(By Associated Press)
TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 11.—Despite his division of $25,000 reward money among more than 1,000 participants in the arrest and conviction of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, Governor Harold G. Hoffman still insisted today "that the case has not been completely solved."

Hoffman, whose reprieve of the convicted Bronx carpenter and self-directed investigation of the kidnap-slaying of the Lindbergh baby resulted in his censure on several fronts, said he was writing 10 articles for a national magazine because "I don't feel that the other side of the case, if there is one, has been told."

He announced division yesterday of the $25,000 reward appropriated by the New Jersey legislature. The largest share, $7,500, went to Walter Lyle of Elizabeth. N. J. Lyle accepted a ransom note from Hauptmann in 1935 in payment for gasoline at a Bronx N. Y. service station. Following a company rule, Lyle wrote Hauptmann's license number on the $10 bill.

Another attendant, John L. Lyons, who took the bill to the bank, was awarded $1,000. William R. Strong, bank teller who identified the note, and William F. Cody, teller who spotted a $5 ransom note passed at a New York theater, were given $2,000 each.

William J. Allen, Negro laborer who discovered the body of Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr. in a wooded section near Hopewell, was granted $5,000. Many others share in the balance.

"I must reiterate my belief that more than one person was involved in this crime, that the case has not been completely solved," Hoffman declared.

The governor retires from office next week.

Audit of Salem's Records Completed

H. H. Kennedy and Charles M. Shank, state examiners, have gone to Barborton to make an audit of city records there, following their completion of the annual inspection of Salem City books.

The examiners' report of the local inspection, started late in October, has been forwarded to State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson at Columbus.

Barbara Stanwyck Demands Mental Test For Ex-Hubby

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 11.—Ten affidavits declaring that Frank Fay, actor and former husband of Barbara Stanwyck, is subject to mental eccentricities that make him an unsafe companion for their five-year-old adopted son were on file today.

The affidavits were filed to support Miss Stanwyck's request that the court appoint a psychiatrist to examine Fay.

The actress is contesting his demand that the court fix specific times for him to see their son, Dion Anthony.

Fay laughed in court when Charles Cradick, counsel for Miss Stanwyck, asked he be examined. His attorney said:

"We question Miss Stanwyck's fitness to keep the child, and we think it might be a good idea to have a psychiatrist examine her."

The affidavits set forth that Fay: Closed his eyes, folded his hands and muttered a prayer whenever he prepared to light a cigaret.

Did the same thing whenever he passed a church and that such actions, when he happened to be driving an automobile, were hazardous.

Punctuated with profanity and prayers his reading of the daily newspaper.

Was frequently drunk, once chased a doctor with a knife, spent two periods in sanitariums and became worse after falling downstairs and injuring his head.

Affidavits sworn to by Albert S. Lloyd, long-time friend of Fay, said that once when Fay, equipped with a new set of false teeth, took him to a football game he insisted on standing, bowing and smiling widely at fellow spectators—so they could see his new denture.

Mrs. Padgett Lloyd, housekeeper for Fay for about six months, deposed that on four occasions when his son visited him Fay's chief interest in seeing him seemed to consist in asking:

"Who comes to see mommy? Does mommy go out at night? Who goes out with her?"

Miss Stanwyck was divorced from Fay in December, 1935.

BIG SHIP FALLS IN MONTANA

Crashes and Burns In Mountains; Blizzard Delays Rescue

(By Associated Press)
BOZEMAN, Mont., Jan. 11.—A biting blizzard threw a snowy shroud today over the bodies of 10 persons killed when a Northwest Airlines plane crashed and burned in the Bridger mountains 14 miles north of here yesterday.

Piloted by Nick Mamer, who had flown more than 1,000,000 miles without injuring a passenger, the plane went into a tailspin and plunged nose-first into a small clearing. The nose was snapped off by impact with the frozen ground.

Searchers found all aboard dead, but the storm forced them to give up until late today the task of bringing the bodies here. A guard was left at the crash scene.

Call Out Snowplows

Gallatin county officials said that snowplows would open the roads when the bodies are brought down by bobble.

Two woodcutters, C. A. Larson and Glenn White, were working about 200 feet from where the plane crashed but were unable to approach because of the flames. They went immediately for help and met Sheriff Lovitt I. Westlake and a party of forest rangers.

Northwest Airlines officials in St. Paul listed the dead as Mamer, Captain F. W. West, both of Spokane, and these eight passengers:

W. E. Borgenheimer, about 39, Basin, Mont., who had cancelled a reservation on a later plane to speed to the bedside of his dying mother in Wisconsin. Word reached Basin about the time of the crash that the mother had died.

Lloyd Levin, 33, returning to his home at Detroit, after visiting his ill mother at Butte, Mont.

Al H. Cronquist, 47, of Billings, Mont., state traffic manager for the airline and one of the organizers of the Montana-Wyoming Dude Ranchers' association.

George A. Anderson of Seattle, territory sales supervisor for the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Co.

Walter Torn, postal inspector, St. Paul.

Douglas Mackay, 37, clerk of the Canadian committee of the Hudson's Bay Co., and former employee of the Canadian Press.

Ted Anderson, mechanic in the St. Paul shops of Northwest Airlines.

I. E. Stevenson of Seattle.

SO?

As easily as though it were a raw oyster, the country has swallowed the official assertion that the navy must be as large as the admirals and Navy leaguers say it must be, for safety's sake.

At this point in the naval armaments race, Americans are sure of only a few things. One is, of course, that the huge fleet it is developing is to be used for defense only.

Another is that no nation, except Great Britain, would dare to think of matching the United States ship for ship, and Britain doesn't dare to because it has so many other irons in the fire.

So it is a perfectly proper question to ask, if the United States is going to spend more than a billion dollars a year, most of it on the world's largest navy: Whom does this country expect to fight?

WHO'S A SISSY?

All is not lost in the newest international version of the ageless struggle between the bullies and the sissies.

President Roosevelt's remarks on fighting aggression with a stronger national defense were translated from his annual message into seven languages and re-broadcast by short wave to all parts of the world.

Italy has decided to tone down its radio propaganda due to the fact that Great Britain was beginning to fight fire with fire among certain gullible natives of the near east and northern Africa.

Free countries—or countries which like to think they're free—have had to admit the dictatorships can outdistance them at name-calling from a standing start with no wind at their back any day in the week. They have to grin and bear a lot of insults.

But if the dictators have made the mistake of thinking the "sissies" wouldn't try to get even, they're going to be surprised. In the good old style of playground justice, the "sissy" sooner or later must humble the bully, else what kind of a world would this be?

A CHANGE FOR THE BETTER

In view of the Supreme Court controversy of last year and the turning point in that fight which Justice Van Devanter's retirement marked, it might seem that the second retirement of a conservative justice, Mr. Sutherland, would have reopened the court issue.

Fortunately, this is not the case. Moderates always have taken the position that changes brought about in the Supreme Court by time were acceptable because they were natural. The court now has a liberal majority, not because it was packed by executive decree, but because two of its aged members have chosen to retire.

As for the person who will be appointed to replace Justice Sutherland, the public feels the circumstances of President Roosevelt's own appointment guarantees a maximum of discretion this time. Naturally, the appointee will be a new dealer. But a senate which burned its fingers rubber stamping Justice Black's appointment is not likely to make that mistake again. Mr. Sutherland's successor will have to be widely acceptable.

A senator the other day, commenting on these things in relation to the court fight which raged so hotly last year, said events have proved "We all got excited over nothing." Quite the contrary, by getting excited at the right time over something very momentous, we have removed most of the causes of excitement as far as tinkering with the courts is concerned.

THE STARS SAY:

For Wednesday, January 12

This should be a very auspicious day for all old matters, for solidifying the fortunes and for achieving the ambitions, judging by the mutual and lunar aspects. The judgment may be slow but sure, but influential friends will prove an important factor in shaping results.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year of opportunity for substantial growth in the fortunes and possessions, possibly through inheritance, trust, deed or other token of favor from elders or superiors. A child born on this day may be efficient and ambitious, with many sound traits of mind and character to promote its aspirations and win the support of its elders and superiors. It would be well to train it in less sarcastic and critical speech.

Mr. Roosevelt already has made it plain that he is trying to pass the buck to business. The final sentence in his message: "I do not propose to let the people down; I am sure Congress will not let the people down," suggests that he also may try to pass it to Congress.

That talk about amending the wage-hour bill may encourage a good many people, but probably they won't be satisfied with the amendment if it is adopted.

For several days to come a fellow's prominence will be measured by the number of times he is mentioned as a possible successor to Justice Sutherland.

Sometimes it appears that the efforts to abolish poverty are going to succeed in making it permanent for everybody.—Ohio State Journal.

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Jan. 11—One of the knotty problems in sociology is the kept man. A recent survey revealed nearly 5,000 who live off the earnings of women. The majority reside in the area of the Roaring Forties or in the cross streets of the West Seventies.

Now and then some of them sprout up through the lower social strata to the top soil of Fifth and Park avenue, but mostly they consort on the seamy side. Oddly, there are not many Apollos among them. Rather are they pasty-faced, pinch-cheeked and weasel-eyed.

They are given to sartorial extravaganzas, the big checked, high belted overcoat and loud muffers. Most are chain cigarette smokers but few drink to excess. This is reputedly due to the large percentage of drug addiction among them. They are meat for the dope dealers.

Rarely are they seen with their ladies who reside in the blowy hotels and the shady apartment houses—the sort who stroll late at night with white poodles. Police regard such sordid panders with deserved contempt, but that is about all they can do.

Bruce Barton in his recent successful campaign for congress surprised friends, business and political associates with his flair for fraternizing with all classes. A born silk stocking and living in a perfumed area, he was looked upon as a pink tea candidate. But he shucked all that and was soon hobnobbing in perfect ease with the news vendors, doormen, truck drivers and the boys around the corner at Jake's.

As a matter of fact, haughtiness is almost a lost gesture. It belonged to another generation. The elder J. P. Morgan had it, while his son perched a circus midget on his knee. The most reserved to all outward appearances of the biggies is probably John D. Rockefeller. He never lets himself go, but is said to be amiable enough upon a firmer acquaintance. Actors of high rank in the old days were unapproachable. Such as John Drew and Richard Mansfield. But there is no longer a high handshake among theatrical or movie stars.

Speaking of haughtiness, I think there is no deflation equaling that recent crack on a radio program when a comic, meeting a puffed up fellow, inquired: "What do you hear from the mob?"

Amiability, however, can be carried too far. Most of us shun the fellow to whom everything is perfectly dandy. Or if we accept him we are likely to cuff him around. My own choice in companionship is for the easy-going fellow, but I like him to freeze up once in awhile. When Abe Erlanger and Marc Klaw were theatrical partners they got along nicely, but if things were too smooth one or the other would kick up a violent row and after a session of desk pounding and exchange of epithets they might for several weeks transact business solely by formal notes. They found such ruckuses, like the electrical storm, cleared the atmosphere and improved their relationship. I think it was Somerset Maugham who declared his only objection to pipe smokers was that they were entirely too agreeable. Too full of whimsy.

Pipe smoking, by the way, seems on way to the drawing room. I saw a Tuxedoed diner with his lady light up a well-worn briar at the Colony after coffee the other evening without a frown from ever watchful Gene. Also a house dick at one of the de luxe hotels declares he no longer murmurs a polite disapproval at a pipe user wreathing a few rings in the fingers. Yet I cannot forget our dog Clay who used to crawl under the house when a neighbor used to torch up on his front porch with his corncob in the evening.

Jerry Belcher, the radio interviewer, chivvied up the grandest of the Yule heart throbs, to my notion. He was interviewing the head of the returned goods department of a large store in Chicago. Toys are not returnable usually, so when a shabbily dressed, timid woman asked to exchange a doll for the 75 cents purchase price she was gently told the rule. Something in her manner caught his attention. He asked why she was returning the doll. In almost a whisper she murmured: "We lost our baby."

FALLING HAIR

Loss of hair is of great interest to a victim. There are many who suffer in this way.

There is one particular affliction of the scalp which always arouses a great deal of real worry. It is often mistaken for baldness, but, unlike most cases of baldness, it usually responds to treatment.

I refer to that condition medically known as "alopecia areata." In this disorder one part or several portions of the scalp may lose all the hair. The victim notices bare patches here and there. If not actually bare, there may be a few white hairs in the patches, and they serve to give an odd appearance. The disorder may attack other portions of the body; the patches sometimes appear in the beard, eyebrows or mustache.

The actual cause of this strange affliction is unknown. It is probable that heredity plays a part because alopecia areata is found in several members of certain families. Since it often occurs after a severe shock or nervous upset, it is believed to be associated with some disturbance of the central nervous system, or the glandular system of the body.

Glandular Trouble?

There is no doubt that the condition is intimately related to the glandular system because it is frequently found in those who have goiter and other definite glandular disorders. Young girls who suffer from menstrual difficulties are sometimes afflicted with alopecia areata. When the original trouble is corrected there is a marked improvement in the general health of the individual, as well as a renewed growth of the hair.

Since this form of hair loss is associated with the general health, a complete medical examination is advised. Such chronic disorders as are accompanied by underweight, overweight, high blood pressure, anemia, nervousness, loss of sleep and constipation should be corrected if relief of the scalp trouble is to be obtained.

It is unwise to resort to the use of a hair tonic or some other scalp medication unless it has been prescribed by your doctor. Such application should be free of any chemical that may destroy the remaining hair follicles.

SYNOPSIS

Julie Allerdyc, 19-year-old daughter of Professor Allerdyc of the Ramsey Preparatory School for boys, manages to get herself engaged to Dr. Richard Jessup, Fayette's most eligible bachelor, she looks forward to a glamorous future as a married woman. Of course, most people in town had thought Dick would marry Millicent Dodd who is 33 while he is 38, but Millicent hides her disappointment and gives an engagement party for Julie. Less tactful is Tommy Jessup, Dick's younger brother. He is still in college, and has always loved Julie. He tells her she will be sorry if she spools four lives by marrying Dick. Julie tells Tommy to mind his business, but in less than six weeks she begins to find being engaged is boring. It is then she remembers the words of Pete Waddell, barnstorming aviator who gives flying lessons at a neighboring field. He had told her there was a great future in flying for a beautiful girl. She makes a trial flight with Waddell and decides she will learn to be a flyer. But the course costs a hundred dollars. Julie borrows the money from Millicent Dodd. In the class, Julie notes there is one other girl, Rita Cartwright. Waddell tells Julie Rita's father is a wealthy utilities king and that it might be profitable to cultivate the girl's friendship. Julie had already decided to do that.

CHAPTER XIII

In the class, with the exception of the two girls, hurried outside. It couldn't have been hotter in the sun than it was under the sun baked roof. Julie got out her compact and powdered her nose. Rita washed her hands, cooling her wrists, at a wash basin. Julie caught her underlip in her teeth while she made up her mind. Then she said, "Miss Cartwright, does it matter very much to you that time you have your lesson Thursday? I mean at ten or eleven?" "Not a bit," the other girl said immediately. "Why?" Julie appeared to hesitate. "Well, I have a hospital board meeting at one and I would have to call off.... I wondered if you'd mind changing with me? I really do hate to miss the board meeting. It happens to be terribly interesting in some projects we're working on right now." "Oh, sure, it's quite all right. You come at ten and I'll take the place." "Thank you." Just the right degree of gratitude. The two girls walked out together, crossed the field to their car. To Julie's borrowed, battered car, to Rita's sleek, new roadster. Julie said, "If you had a swim with you, I'd ask you to join me. I don't like to go alone. I am expected my cousin to meet here this morning. We were going swimming together but it isn't likely that she's going to turn up. She was due here an hour ago. Beastly hot, isn't it?" Rita asked interestedly. "Where on earth were you going swimming around here?" Julie remembered Playland park, remote edition of Cony Island a few miles south. She passed it on her way to the field. "Playland park," she said apologetically. "It isn't very nice but anywhere will do in this weather. The pool is fairly decent." Rita said, "If you'd care for a swim, why don't you come along with me? We've got a pool. Not very big but cool. We'll have some lunch." Julie selected enthusiasm rather than gratitude. "Swim? Are you quite sure it is convenient to take me along?" "Oh, there'll be lots of people there. And I'll be glad to have you. I'd like to talk over some things that Waddell said today. They puzzled me and you might be able to help. I've been wanting to talk to you but you're always rushing off after class." She slid back the wheel of her car. "You won't mind following?" Julie lifted her hand in a signal to go on. Her own motor coughed, wheezed and settled into the perpetual asthmatic rumble Tommy was pleased to call purring. She forgot that the road was dusty, that she was hot. Heat couldn't do anything to affect her appearance long. And her bathing suit was smart, becoming. She had no worries about her figure. She had no worries of any kind. Things were working out for her. She was on the way to the home of Cartwright, the utilities king. Things always worked the way she wanted them to. Hadn't Rita said she had been wanting to talk to her for a long time? Julie sounded her horn and almost scared the life out of a sparrow in the road. The Rattletrap bumped along the road from Clunesville in the dusty wake of Rita Cartwright's roadster. Julie's left foot pressed on the floor board to keep it down. The little car pranced about on the knolls in the road like a skittish steed. It could have stood on its radiator, it couldn't have disturbed Julie Allerdyc's bright anticipation. They left the state road, turned down a lane passing between high field-stone walls which shut off the view of the property they enclosed. Rita turned her head and swung her uplifted hand right. Julie followed her between the high opened gates. Thus she entered the first of many backgrounds of the brief drama she was to play. Her first view of the Cartwright's place was exciting. She was first aware of color; the greens of the lawn, the darker greens of the tall trees, the bright purity of the sky like a painted backdrop for the whiteness of the spreading house with its slate blue roof were like canvas colors. She had never seen a house like it. It was, she learned later, a California-type of house. Built of white-washed brick, it was designed for sunlight and space. It must have had, she thought, at least a hundred rooms. It hadn't. Rita got out of her car and ran back to where Julie waited. Julie said, "It's beautiful here."

"It is nice-ish," Rita answered. "We like it better than the summer place in Maine. It's more accessible. Dad belongs to a flying club and we had to have a place where planes could land. Mother prefers hunting. Later, I'll show you the hangar and the stables. Julie followed her into a wide, cool hall. At first she thought it was the living-room. Rita said, "We might as well get into our bathing suits. We'll get something to eat at the pool."

The two girls went up the polished flight of stairs. Rita opened the door to a bedroom. Julie saw the black skirts of a maid vanish through another door which she knew led to the bathroom. "You can change here," Rita said. "Wilson" — Julie gathered Wilson was one of the maids — "will take your things to the play house and we'll dress there later. You're not in a rush to get back, are you?" Julie said she wasn't particularly. She wondered if Tommy would need his car. She had always made a point of getting it back to its place in front of Judge Platt's office before three. Tommy had a class at four. Well —

When Rita went out, closing the door behind her, Julie sat on a satin slipper chair. She almost sat on the bed but she thought better of disturbing the crepe de Chine cover. She surveyed the room interestedly, calculatingly. With her bare feet she felt the velvet softness of the deep rug. Her eyes swept the decorative details with appreciation. Some day she'd have a room with curtains of silken gauze, a bed with a padded silk head in place of boards.

She took off her dress, and in her step-ins went into the bathroom. She'd never seen a bathroom before where there was paper on the walls, a carpet on the floor. She saluted the leaping dolphins, got out of her step-ins and cooled her body under the shower.

Drying herself she was careful not to rub her smooth ivory skin too hard. She wanted an ivory not a red background, to her white suit. The suit fitted perfectly, tied demurely at the back of her neck above the uncovered expanse of her back, beneath the soft mass of her loosened coppery hair. She looked at herself in the mirror. The slight waist. The long, clean line of her legs.

She had heard no one in the bedroom, but when she went back she found a green silk dressing-gown, a pair of straw sandals on the slipper chair. The sandals fit, looked new as though no one had worn them. Green was her color. She put the dressing-gown on, tying the belt tight about her waist and went into the hall, down the stairs.

New Deal For Blind Persons Is Started By U.S. Agency

Former Lisbon Man In Charge Of Federal Program Designed To Develop Positions For Sightless

LISBON, Jan. 10.—Recent appointment of a former Lisbon man to the newly created post of federal special agent for the blind promises to launch a new deal for those who have lost their sight.

Responsibility for shaping and creating this new federal program to aid the blind falls on Joseph P. Clunk, 42, who has himself been blind for the past 20 years. His operations will include the entire United States.

The program will be two-fold in nature. Clunk's first duty will be to create new jobs for blind persons and fill them with capable individuals. He will also attempt to co-ordinate the various agencies devoted to such work and evolve a systematic and more intelligent program for aiding the blind.

Canada Sets Example

Few men are more ably fitted for such a task than Clunk, who resided here until 1920. Much of his time since he lost his sight suddenly at the age of 22 has been devoted to helping people similarly afflicted. He began this work by helping a number of blind men in industrial plants in Youngstown, and Pittsburgh. He lectured whenever given the opportunity, seeking to sell the idea that the blind could capably fill jobs in industry rather than being forced to make brooms or knick-knacks in some home.

Leaving Lisbon he became secretary of the Youngstown Association for the Blind.

His work came to the attention of Canadian authorities, who sought some person to supervise a program of government aid for the blind. Clunk was chosen for the post and for nine years battled in behalf of the sightless. Canada today has one of the most advanced and comprehensive programs of social aid for the sightless.

In his new position Clunk will work in the department of the interior and will have charge of administering the new Randolph

Auditor Suggests Method For Relief

LISBON, Jan. 11.—County Auditor John H. Irwin has written a letter to State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson asking the higher official whether Columbiana county may expend its utility excise tax fund, totaling between $30,000 and $40,000, for relief purposes.
The money would be divided among the county municipalities on the basis of the respective relief loads. East Liverpool, Salem and East Palestine would receive the major portions in the distribution.

Even after such throat-taxing scenes, ANN SOTHERN finds Luckies gentle on her throat..

1. "IN 'SHE'S GOT EVERYTHING', my new RKO-Radio picture," says Ann Sothern, "there's a scene where the girl gets married on a jolting truck, and it turned out to be a knockout! ... But for me, as an actress ...

2. "IT WAS A KNOCKOUT in a different sense! Imagine shouting your 'I do's' above the noise of a truck... and imagine doing it 30 times! Yet, even after this throat strain, I still enjoyed Luckies! They're always ...

3. "GENTLE ON MY THROAT. Others at the RKO-Radio studios agree with me—Barbara Stanwyck and Herbert Marshall, for instance." (Reason: the "Toasting" process expels certain throat irritants found in all tobacco.)

COLUMBIANS WIN TO TIE FOR 1ST IN CAGE LEAGUE

Reich Trojans Also In Deadlock For Lead In Class B

The battle for first place in the Class B City Basketball league was again today a deadlocked affair after the Columbians and Reich's Trojans chalked up victories in league games at the Memorial building last night to move into a tie for the top berth with the Krauss Heels.

The Columbians climbed into the first place deadlock by trouncing the defending champion Methodists, 30 to 20, for their sixth win in eight league starts.

Reich's Trojans gained their sixth victory in eight games by spanning the Trades Class, 25 to 18.

Two other league games were played, but neither had any bearing on the "hot" race for first place in which five teams are involved.

Whit's Garage nosed out the Saxons, 14 to 13, and the Baptists rolled to an easy 24 to 14 win over Demings in the other league contests.

Bill Rogers and Ed Zilly set the scoring pace in leading the Columbians to their triumph over the defending champs. Rogers scored five field goals for 10 points, while Zilly made four free throws and one free throw for nine markers.

The Columbians were out in front throughout the contest and held a 19 to 8 lead at halftime.

The Trojans experienced more difficulty than the Columbians in gaining their victory, but staged a second half spurt to emerge on top. The Trades Class pushed the Trojan quintet in both the first and second periods, then fell behind in the last two frames.

The Trojans held a three-point lead, 10 to 7, at the intermission. Mike Fromm and Mike Oana shared scoring honors for the Reich team with eight points apiece.

After trailing throughout the second and third quarters, Whit's Garage rallied in the final frame to nose out the Saxons by one point.

The Saxons held a 9 to 7 edge at halftime and were out in front, 13 to 12, at the end of the third quarter.

The Baptists came from behind in the second half to wallopp the Deming quintet. The Pumpmakers held the lead during the first two periods, but succumbed to the Baptists' rally in the last two frames.

Hard-Driving Jim Thompson Wins First Major Tourney

Takes Early Lead In Los Angeles Open and Keeps It

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 11.—The roving band of professional golfers, led by Jimmy Thompson, winner of the $7,500 Los Angeles open, turned toward Del Mar by the sea today and Bing Crosby's $3,000 tournament.

The event limited to 75 professionals and 75 amateurs, will be held Saturday and Sunday.

Thompson, the siege gun of Shawnee on the Delaware, Pa., blasted himself into the lead in the first round of the open and kept on firing until he finished. It was the first major tournament he had ever won in this country.

Thompson presented a 72-hole card of 65-66-74-68-273 to take the big purse of $2,000. It was his first "big money" since he collected $5,000 in the Melbourne Centenary open in Australia several years ago.

Taming his famed long shots to fit the comparative shortness of the Woodrow Wilson course, Thompson lowered the tournament record set by Harry Cooper last year at 274.

In second place, four strokes back was Johnny Revolta, Evanson, Ill., who eked out a close victory over Thompson two weeks ago in the Miami-Biltmore tournament. Revolta won $1,200. Henry Picard, Hershey, Pa., and Lawson Little, San Francisco, collected $840 apiece with 278.

Four leading contenders tied with 279 and collected $350 each. They were Horton Smith, Chicago, and George Von Elm, Los Angeles, both of whom pulled in with 69, Lloyd Mangrum, Dayton, O., and Willie Goggin, San Francisco.

MICHIGAN WINS OVER BUCKEYES

Wolverine Cagers Whip Ohio State, 38-28, In Big Ten Fray

By EARL HILLIGAN
CHICAGO, Jan. 11.—It's been a long time since Michigan "ruled the west" in football, but there's no mistaking the Wolverines' determination to go places in basketball this winter.

While all other clubs, Northwestern excepted, have been upsetting one another to make the current Big Ten court campaign a mad scramble from the start, Michigan has won two games. Both victories were achieved without extra trouble, and the Wolverines, in addition to a smooth offense, presented a defense which has been remarkably consistent.

Michigan, previously victorious over Illinois, trounced Ohio State 38 to 28 last night. The Wolverines again won with a last-half spurt. They trailed 28-18 at the intermission.

Northwestern's Wildcats clung to first place by winning a third straight game, this one 36 to 28 over Iowa. Northwestern's attack was led by Jake Nagode, who bagged 11 points.

Illinois served notice it cannot be counted out of a chance to retain its half-share of the title. The Illinois upset Purdue's highly rated team, 51 to 43 before more than 7,000 fans. The game was extremely rough, 36 fouls being called. Illinois, which had lost its first two starts, led almost from the start and had a 29 to 13 edge at the half.

Unable to get its offense clicking, Minnesota dropped a 39 to 32 decision to Indiana. It was a second straight defeat for the Gophers, who shared last season's crown with Illinois.

Ernest Andros and Marvin Huffman, of Indiana, paced the attack with 14 and 11 points, respectively. Wisconsin had little trouble downing Chicago 50 to 27 for a record of two wins and one loss. The Badgers led 29 to 13 at the half.

Budge Sick
ADELAIDE, Australia, Jan. 11.—Donald Budge, Wimbledon and American tennis champion, arrived here today ill and extremely weak. His physician said he said a slight fever and ordered rest.

MINOR LEAGUES INCREASED FOR COMING SEASON

Association Adds Class E Leagues To Its Present List

By W. G. BRAMHAM
DURHAM, N. C., Jan. 11.—The minor leagues step into a new year with a new responsibility. Not only has the National Association expanded within its former confines, but enters 1938 with a new classification—Class E leagues—created at the annual convention in Milwaukee last month.

These new leagues, authorized to take care of an insistent demand on the part of youth for a place in the baseball sun, will be virtual kindergartens of the professional game. They will be limited to modest salary rolls, and are designed, primarily, for "home town" boys and those living within close range of the clubs.

We anticipated the boys would welcome this opportunity but were far short in our estimate of the amount of interest that would be generated. Our office has been literally swamped with mail from young players since the creation of Class E.

Inquiries come from all sections and from all types of boys. They are anxious to start on a baseball career, and the National Association has assumed the responsibility of affording them their chance.

Class E leagues are in a formative stage. No doubt numerous circuits of this rating will be admitted to membership this year. My advice to the youngsters is to watch their local papers for news of league organization and, after selecting a club close to home, make application for a trial.

Such a rush of mail as we have had is clearly indicative that youth has not lost its interest in baseball, as some would have us believe. On the contrary, I feel that the heavy influx of inquiries convinces, without a doubt that there has not been so much interest on the part of boys in years.

This rise may be traced to the startling growth of Class D leagues. In 1933, only two of them were in operation. There was not much room for the beginner. Last season we had 20 Class D circuits, and with this broadened field, the number of youngsters entering the game showed a remarkable increase and interest was stimulated to an exceptional pitch.

As to the immediate past and present of the National Association, I have only to direct attention to the season of 1937. Thirty-seven minor leagues started the campaign and every one finished its schedule. Never in the history of the association has such a record been made.

Furthermore, there was a complete absence of territorial liens debts, indicating that "business was good" and that baseball was back on the plane where it belongs. With such an encouraging season behind us, we naturally go very hopefully into 1938.

Minor league baseball does not want to let prosperity go to its head. It is our purpose to continue in the channels of sane business methods, and under such policy we view the new year with the hope and thought that it will hold both pleasure and profit.

Theater Attractions

Lily Pons has the leading role in "Hitting a New High," musical comedy which will be seen Wednesday only at the State theater. Jack Oakie, comedian, is co-starred with Miss Pons.

Seven songs, ranging from operatic arias through classic "novelty" tunes to sparkling modern numbers, are sung by the diva, who is supported by such favorites as Eric Blore, Edward Everett Horton, John Howard, Eduardo Clandini and Luis Alberni.

The plot deals with the romance between Miss Pons and Howard, and with the ingenious scheme through which Oakie seeks to have her "discovered" by his publicity-seeking employer, Horton.

Miss Pons, a singer with Howard's orchestra in Paris, yearns to be an opera star and quarrels with Howard when she tries to get an audience with Horton, a pompous big-game hunter and opera patron.

Oakie, Horton's press agent, works out a clever plan by which Miss Pons is to precede Horton's safari to Africa and there let Horton find her as a "bird-girl," a sort of feminine Tarzan who has grown up from babyhood in the jungle and learned to sing from the birds.

"Wells Fargo," dramatic picture-tization of early United States history, concludes tonight at the State. The picture stars Frances Dee and Joel McCrea and features Bob Burns, Henry O'Neill, Lloyd Noian, Porter Hall, Robert Cummings, Ralph Morgan, Mary Nash, John Mack Brown and others.

Double Bill Next

Following "Boy of the Streets," the Jackie Cooper film, which concludes tonight, the Grand offers a double bill.

"Trapped by G-Men," with Jack Holt and Wynne Gibson, and "She Loved a Fireman," featuring Ann Sheridan and Dick Foran, will be seen Wednesday and Thursday.

The Cooper film, ending tonight, gives the former child star an excellent role, that of a tenement boy who tries to better himself. Maureen O'Connor, former radio singer, is featured.

home, on the night of the murder shortly after Marino had left for the evening with a girl friend. It is occupants on the next night forced their way into a Youngstown undertaking parlor to see the body.

Marino was known as a petty gangster and bank robber. He was paroled from the Ohio penitentiary in 1935, by Gov. George White after serving 14 months of a 20-year term for robbery. The parole is among those being investigated in Columbus.

Riddled With Bullets

The gangster's body was found on the Youngstown-East Liverpool road, near Rogers, Columbiana county. Marino had been riddled with bullets and died shortly after midnight, a few hours after he was seen in a beer parlor with his girl friend.

Galati twice was convicted of carrying concealed weapons here. In May, 1933, he was committed to the penitentiary for one to three years. Last summer he and another youth were acquitted of impersonating an officer.

Galati gave his address as 3468 E. 121st. st.

10 ARE KILLED IN PLANE CRASH

Airliner Crashes In Montana Mountains; Snow Delays Rescue

airline officials and the department of commerce we will be unable to make any statement as to the definite causes surrounding the same."

F. W. Whittemore, vice president in charge of operations, said company representatives were enroute to the crash scene to investigate.

Sheriff Westlake, who led the searching party over tortuous roads and trails to the wreckage, said he "counted nine bodies" in his hasty examination.

Airport officials at Butte, the plane's last stop before the crash, said eight passengers and two crew members were aboard.

The sheriff reported the bodies were badly burned, three had been thrown, or fallen, from the fuselage, and the others—he could not tell if there were six or seven—were tossed into the front of the shattered airliner.

The passengers were the first ever killed in a transport plane crash in Montana, and the first to meet death on a Northwest Airlines flight. The National Safety Council awarded the line a certificate last year for its 11-year record of flying 47,000,000 passenger miles with no passenger fatalities.

The plane, bound for Chicago from Seattle via Minneapolis, had been grounded for a time at Butte because of bad weather.

A postoffice official at Helena, Mont., said the plane carried mail. Coroner Howard Nelson of Gallatin county started for the crash scene last night but was turned back by the blizzard.

Sheriff Westlake said snow drifting over the wreckage would delay an investigation.
